THAT enterprising Washington correspondent of the Register is eliciting universal admiration and admiration from a general public on account of the boldness and comprehensiveness of his plagiarisms. His most recent appropriation is the elegant tribute of the late Judge Joseph Story to the Aberdeen of this country, printed in Tuesday's issue of our Market street neighbor. The boy however exercises excellent judgment in his selection of the authors from whose works his abstractions are made.

The B. & O. and "Pewky."

The B. & O. R. Company is after the P. W. & Ky. again, as it would appear from an application that was made for an injunction last Saturday afternoon, before Judge J. J. Jackson, of the United States District Court for West Virginia. The petitioner, through its attorneys, Messrs. Bogges and Lamb, asks that the said P. W. & K. Railroad Company be restrained from trespassing upon certain lots owned by the B. & O. Company, said lots having been purchased by the latter and conveyed to the City of Wheeling and J. M. Bousfield. The injunction was awarded and the process was made returnable at the term of the United States Circuit Court to be held at Parkersburg, March 18th, next.

Maxwell served a copy of the process upon the attorney of the P. W. & Ky. road in this city.

A chancery suit has also been instituted against the "Pewky" Company by the B. & O. Company, and the same in this case were served on Tuesday last.

The State Fair.

The solicitors for subscriptions to the State Fair project are industriously at work and are meeting with a reasonable degree of success. Much annoyance is caused by merchants and others who have "not made up their minds" upon the size of their subscription, and ask the solicitor to "call another day." There will be a meeting at the Court House Saturday night, for the purpose of ascertaining the progress the thing has made and to determine the future movements of those interested. It is highly necessary that all who are interested in the matter should be present and take a part in the proceedings, as the project will likely fail without the immediate and vigorous action be taken. Much talk has resulted over the question of a site upon which the fair will be held. Several eligible sites have been suggested, and all have any others in view are requested to come to the meeting Saturday night and submit them for the consideration of those present.

Wheeling Boys Antray.

At a late hour last night the detectives noticed three boys of about twelve years of age wandering about the streets and on speaking to them found that they had no place to spend the night and were out of money. With some difficulty they were brought to the Central Station and gave their names as Charles Moran, Edward Fink and A. Reynolds. They stated that they wanted to enjoy a trip and started to this city as they had money saved to purchase tickets, landing here with their capital reduced to a few cents. All the boys belong to the same family and are the sons of a man who is well known in the city.

Municipal Court—Judge Cramer.

This court met at 10 a. m. yesterday and transacted the following business:

Jane Wilson vs. James P. Rogers, administrator, dec. et al. assumpsit. The evidence in this case was heard and arguments made and submitted to the court.

Adjourned until Saturday next at 10 a. m.

Removal.

Mr. C. Y. Lucas, the popular music dealer, has removed his store to 1142 Main street, being the one formerly occupied by Cummins & Wood. The room is splendidly adapted for Mr. Lucas' trade, being 130 feet deep, and well calculated to show off his stock of pianos, organs, etc., to great advantage. When we called yesterday afternoon Mr. Lucas said that he was hardly fixed up yet, but was always ready for customers. His line of musical goods is complete, containing everything from a jeweler's piano to an organ. Give him a call in his new quarters.

A LIVELY COURT SCENE.

A Moving Scene in Justice Phillips' Office Yesterday Afternoon.

A highly amusing scene occurred in Justice Phillips' Court yesterday afternoon, in which an inebriated colored gentleman, two dogs, "Hayes" and "Pete," and officer Martin were the characters of the comedy.

George Buchanan, the colored gentleman, whose stage name is "Buckey," was wandering listlessly around the Justice's office shortly after dinner and being very drunk he undertook to criticize the work of some brick-masons who were building a chimney. "Buckey" did not "tackle kindly" to the masons and cursed and ranted them roundly for some imaginary affront.

Justice Phillips hearing his blasphemous oratory ordered him to vacate the premises. "Buckey" complied and crossed the street but soon returned and the air was again polluted by oaths. The Justice was not mistaken in the voice; no one could be, and he requested officer Martin to produce the body of George Buchanan alias "Buckey" in court. The profane colored gentleman was accordingly brought in and was promptly fined $1 and costs.

"Buckey" was remembered as one of the incendiary spirits of the colored Garfield and Arthur club whose peculiar belief was not of the accepted creed of the organization. His inflammatory speech and burning language soon set the members of the club at sword points with each other which resulted in a division of the club. Ever distinguished for his brilliant oratory and unique logic "Buckey" sought to offend the Justice yesterday by pleading in his own case in a very affecting manner. Warming up on his subject his gestures became rather wild, and "Pete," Bob Love's bone chawer, made at the calves of "Buckey's" legs. The colored statesman stopped his harangue at this unexpected attack and, not waiting for permission, rushed out the door with "Pete" clinging tenaciously to his pants leg. He finally shook him before he got to the pavement, but forgot to stop until overpowered by Officer Martin, who brought him back. Meanwhile "Hayes," an educated "sambo," saw the whole occurrence, and thinking "Pete" had usurped some of his prerogatives, went for him, and for a few minutes the center of interest was changed to the dogs, who were snarling at each other for some time. When this diversion was over a well known attorney appeared on the scene, and "Buckey" immediately appealed to him for help. The attorney quietly whispered to him to pick up his things and make a dash for liberty out the back door, close and lock it after him, and fly up the alley. "Buckey" moved over towards the door slowly, and when asked by the Justice where he was going he replied that he was going to consult some attorney, and immediately made a dash for the door. But Officer Martin's eagle eye was on him and nabbed him before he had gone ten feet. "Buckey" then finally gave up the liberty business and announced with stolid gravity that he was ready to be led to prison. Officer Martin then escorted him to the battle on Eoff street. Later in the afternoon a reporter saw "Buckey" enjoying the freedom of the city which must have been purchased by a liquidation of the fine assessed against him.

DRUGS AND DRUGGISTS.

Meeting of the Apothecaries of This City Last Night.

The passage of the Apothecaries' bill by the Legislature at its recent session in this city has a tendency to arouse a very general feeling among the druggists of this State in favor of the organization of a State Pharmaceutical Association, indeed a call for one has already been issued, and May 25th has been fixed upon as the time and this city as the place. It is expected that a large number of druggists will be present, and to the properly entertain these gentlemen was the object of last night's call. At 8 o'clock quite a number of prominent druggists assembled in Veteran Hall, among whom we noticed the following: Edmund Bocking, J. H. Logan, John Laughlin, R. A. McCabe, F. H. Lange, Chris. Schnepf, W. H. Williams, John and Robert McLain, W. T. Derry, S. L. Brice, J. W. McCoy, Mr. Scott, Heber List, Charles Moenkemöller, A. T. Young, J. S. Reed and William Gray.

Heber List presided and S. L. Brice acted as Secretary.

Mr. Bocking stated the object of the meeting, and moved that a committee of arrangements be appointed.

The following named gentlemen were appointed: Edmund Bocking, Charles Moenkemöller, R. A. McCabe, Samuel Laughlin, T. H. Logan, S. L. Brice and H. List.

A. T. Young, Robert McLain and G. M. Kelley were appointed as a committee on printing.

The purposes and objects of the proposed State Association were discussed at length, after which the meeting adjourned.

An adjourned meeting was afterwards held, at which it was determined to call the Board of Public Works not to appoint the three Commissioners whose appointment is provided for in the bill, until after the meeting of the State Association in May.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Hearts of Oak" To-night—Academy of Music—Buffalo Bill.

James A. Herne's "Hearts of Oak" combination opera a three nights' engagement at the Opera House this evening, and they will also give a Saturday matinee. The play has such a widespread reputation for excellence and real dramatic power that it is hard to add to the encomiums already bestowed upon it by the press. The scenery of the Opera House was removed yesterday and the stage is now ready for representing the "Hearts of Oak," on which comment has been made before. The new play is being rapidly and successfully mounted, and promises to be one of the most successful of the season.

Secured seats may be obtained for the evening and matinee performances at Baumer's music store, Market street.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

The Academy of Music contained another large audience last evening. The specialties stars are unusually good and merit the application they receive night after night.

Fannie Herring appeared last night in her sensational drama, and beginning with to-night she will appear for the rest of the week in a change of bill. Good attractions are promised for next week.

A number of times passed down yesterday, and a number of empties up.

The Courier will be to-day's Parkersburg packet leaving at 10:30 a. m.

The Welcome departs for Matamoras at 2 p. m. to-day.

The Ellison is starting out well in the New Matineville trade.

The Batchelor leaves for Pittsburgh at 7 a. m. to-day.

It is said Capt. Ed. Muhlenberg got $23,000 for his interest in the Andros.

Capt. Wm. Coulson, father of Capt. W. Coulson, of the steamer Wyoming, which left this city on Saturday, is represented the Pittsburgh, Huntington and St. Louis Packet Line at Wheeling. We can commend Capt. Coulson to the people of the City as being perfectly reliable and honorable in all his business relations.

Strong Evidence.

I have sold at retail prices since the 4th of December last 150 bottles of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, guaranteeing every bottle. I must say I never sold a medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction. In my own case, with a badly lacerated throat, after a physician's penicillin for several days to no effect, the Electric Oil cured it thoroughly in twenty-four hours, and in threatened croup in my children this relief it never failed to relieve almost immediately. RAILROADS IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Movement in Pittsburgh to Further the Project of Building Railroads to Reach the Ore Fields in this State.

The Pittsburgh Commercial of yesterday gives an account of a meeting of the Engineers' Society of that city, held on Tuesday evening, the special object being to discuss the proposed railroad into the mineral regions of Virginia and West Virginia. After the preliminary business a paper was read by Mr. Benben Miller, giving the result of his observations of the richness of minerals in the Virginia and West Virginia, and then making a strong urging the taking of speedy measures to open the region by a railroad from Pittsburgh through it.

During the discussion in regard to the development of this State, the Commercial says Attorney General White, of West Virginia, was called upon. He said he was not an engineer and not much of a mineralogist. He didn't know much about ores, but he had to say to say. Not long since he read in Henry G. Davis, U. S. Senator from West Virginia, and his son-in-law, of New York, to get a charter from the State of West Virginia for a railroad which it is proposed to build from Pittsburgh through West Virginia to connect with the Richmond & Allegheny railroad (the Clifton Road), and then make a connection with the whole southern country. The men back of this scheme are not mere schemers, but they are business men, and mean business. The road will be built, and built speedily. The charter is one of the most liberal ever given to a railroad, and it is an indication that West Virginia are not opposed to railroads. Mr. White spoke at length upon the large mineral resources, the wealth of timber lands, etc., in West Virginia, and ended by saying that the people of West Virginia look to Pittsburgh as a city that will greatly prosper by developing their State, and they offer Pittsburgh every inducement to assist in the development of the State.

Mr. J. D. Weeks showed upon a map the proposed route of Senator Davis' road in West Virginia to connect with the Richmond & Allegheny road. The latter runs from Richmond to Clifton Forge, and thence to the mouth of the Shenandoah River, and thence to the mouth of the Potomac River, and thence to the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay.
